EASTER GETAWAYS FOR FAMILIES

As spring blooms, many parents are eager to escape the indoors and make the most of family time during the upcoming school breaks. What better way to bond and explore together than a family-friendly cycling holiday?

Cycling holidays are an ideal choice for families seeking an active getaway. Whether pedalling through picturesque countryside, along scenic coastal routes or amidst tranquil forests, families can enjoy the beauty of the great outdoors while exploring new destinations and creating lasting memories together.

The UK is blessed with a multitude of cycle routes that are suitable for families, regardless of age or fitness level. Cycling UK's '50 family-friendly cycle routes' page is a great resource for those looking for inspiration – visit cyclinguk.org/article/50-family-friendly-cycle-routes-uk.

Cornwall is a particularly popular spring destination as it boasts charming and well-equipped YHA hostels along well-travelled cycle routes that allow intrepid adventurers the chance to relax and recharge. The Camel Trail in Cornwall is a beautiful, largely traffic-free route through woodland and coastal scenery. You can follow as much as you want: Padstow to Wadebridge is 5.5 miles, Wadebridge to Bodmin is 5.75 miles and Bodmin to Wenfordbridge is 6.25 miles.

Younger children can enjoy shorter rides or tag along in trailers or child seats, while older kids and teens can tackle longer distances and more adventurous terrain. Families can explore at their own pace, stopping to admire breathtaking views, explore charming villages, or indulge in delicious local cuisine along the way.

Cycling holidays can also be a more cost-effective alternative to traditional half-term holidays, and this is especially true for Cycling UK members who receive a 50% discount on YHA membership. Membership also entitles you to a 10% discount off accommodation and any pre-booked meals. If there are any under 26-year-olds included in the booking, you'll receive an additional 5% discount.

A cycling holiday promises an unforgettable journey filled with joy, discovery and togetherness for the whole family. Saddle up, pedal away, and embark on a springtime adventure like no other. cyclinguk.org/member-benefits/yha
